Leadership Program Accents Student In Expanding Society

by Susan Burke

The conference will open with a keynote address by Sister Beth Albert, O.P., who will speak on the concept of true leadership. John V. Russell, City Attorney of Fort Lauderdale, will discuss the various social legislation and President Kennedy, in particular the controversial Medicare program.

The University of Miami Varity Debate Team will present an exhibition debate on this year’s national debate topic: RESOLVED: These labor unions should be regulated by authority.

Barry Participates In Registration Drive

by Joan DePathy

Eighty-five Barry girls are cooperating with the Miami Jaycees in a state-wide drive to register voters. These students are manning registration booths at strategic points throughout the county in an effort to reach the first-time high school students in Dade County who have not yet registered. They are also visiting hospitals and institutions where people are shut in and don’t have the opportunity to register.

Delta Sigma Omega is organizing campus participation in “Operation Registration.” The project extends from Feb. 15 to March 15 as established by Florida Governor Parvis Peyton. Mr. Herb Benn, assistant attorney general for the state, and Barry students are assisting in the drive.

Entertainment for the evening includes dancing and community singing. There will also be a father-daughter look-alike contest and a dance contest. Master of Ceremonies will be local radio disc jockey Sid Knight. Past masters of ceremonies have included Chuck Zink and Bob Clayton, local TV personalities.

Refreshments will be served by ISG’s Alpha Committee.

A special invitation has been extended to the male members of the faculty and office staff as well as student counselors. Patty Fox, ISG president, cordially invites all day students and residents to attend.

From Sponges To Spook House, Carnival Sparks Lively Pace

by Denise Vanderwerff

The seven minutes between classes don’t seem long enough for most students yesterday as they rushed about the Florida Garden, trying to tass rings, avoid the horrifying spectacles, or pitch pennies at the Student Council Carnival held Thursday from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

The student fortunate enough to have a free period between classes could have a chance on the raffle sponsored by the senior class. Selling tickets all day, she found herself ducking to avoid the sponges that students were throwing to the junior class at the booth on the junior class booth.

The sophomores sponsored a “ringing the gong” booth. Screaming screams and shrills of laughter came from room 120 where students were thrown through the “spooky halls of the House of Horrors” sponsored by the freshmen.

A photography booth, dart throwing, and tablecloths and table arrangements were among the other booths and activities.

BARRY COLLEGE, MIAMI, FLA., MAR. 2, 1962

Dad’s, Daughters Fair Up Sunday

by Kathy Dennison

The annual Father-Son Family sponsored by Delta Sigma Omega will be held March 4 from 3 to 3:30 in the Student Center.

Student participation, according to Mr. Van Voorhis, assistant attorney general, will be a concentrated current aware of the faculty and staff as well.

An award will be presented by Susan Burke of the sophomore class.

Four unannounced topics of current and perpetual interest and the R.A.A. executive board. Winners will be chosen by an objection period will be.held. Other nominees honored were Margo O’Connor, Marie Forget, and Suzanne Forget. Judy, who comes from Chicago, was told the election results last Friday. She has more hushed conversation in the press room or cloak and dagger glimmer of Barry’s Queen Freshman Judy Ryan’s identity.

Judy Ryan Elected Campus Best-Dressed; To Represent Barry In National Contest

by Janet ‘Opuzelo

The annual scholastic dissertation in honor of St. Thomas Aquinas, patron of schools, will be held this year at 11 a.m. in the auditorium.

The main thesis of the dissertation will be “Philosophy in a science that integrates all the student in a new curriculum.” This will be presented and defended by Judy. The first contribution of the class will be an informing science for the natural disciplines within the curriculum. The dissertation will be handled by Rita. Janice will present the second contributory proof. “Philosophy, as the handmaid of theology, integrates the natural disciplines with sacred science.”

Following these presentations, an object period will be held, during which members of the student council will be able to object to any of the three parts of the argument.

This is the first year Barry Aquinas, who has organized the dissertation, will give an introductory address on the value of intellectual pursuit.

Barry’s disputation is patterned after the formal disputation used as a method of instruction and examination during the Middle Ages. It was a means to the intellectual triumph of the period—the synthesis of reason and faith.

Olympics Day Set For March 13

The annual Olympics Day, sponsored by R.A.A., will take place March 13. It will be a half day devoted to individual and team sports.

The program will open with prayer in the Florida Garden, followed by presentation of class banners by class presidents. Following that will be the lighting of the Olympic torch.

This activity is one phase of the R.A.A. whose ideal is to develop the social, moral and physical potentialities of its members.

Good citizenship, good sportsmanship, loyalty, active participation, proficiency and courtesy are all necessary for partnership in R.A.A. This activity is the final phase of R.A.A. through unity in sportsmanship.

At the end of the day the winners will be chosen by selection, R.A.A. votes, and R.A.A. council and the R.A.A. executive board.

Winners will be chosen for athletic competency, skill, loyalty, sports and their display of good sportsmanship.
“On my honor . . .”

The Student Council with the approbation of the administration is presently considering the possibility of establishing a scholastic honor system on this campus. Later in the semester more definite information on the final running of this system will be discussed and the entire student body will be asked to vote on it. If it is passed, it will mean that every Barry student will be on her honor to abide by the rules of the system as compiled and carried out by an elected honor court.

In most honor systems it is necessary, before a student paper is to be graded, that the student sign a pledge at the end of the examination which states “on my honor as a Barry student I have neither given nor received aid on this examination.” If, therefore, a candidate’s notion of the role of a student advisory organization, much warranted attention would be focused on the elections, but it has been completely neglected in Barry elections, at least in the past few years. This has never resulted in disaster, but it has resulted in too many votes cast for a candidate not because of the voter’s confidence in the capabilities of a candidate but simply because the candidate is the choice of her immediate friends or because of other such irrelevant circumstances.

A campaign approach should be used in class as well as campus-wide elections. Campaigning should include the traditional “pass-the-ball” activity and as well as speech-making questions dilates them-selves, which would include a statement of platform.

The advantages of such an approach to campus elections are many. Many more students would be interested in the election, and their outcome would be as vital to students as they should be, but, unfortunately, have not been, in the past few years. Campaign speeches would challenge candidates to logically and convincingly sell themselves and what they stand for. A statement of platform would reveal the ideals of the candidate as well as her aspirations for the college. Without such an approach to elections, a voter must rely upon personal contact with the candidate, a contact through formal activities only, or contact at all.

The question is whether such a system is practical for the Barry campus, where the Student Council, Social Board and Sodalitv act not as student governing bodies but as student advisory organizations. And how effectively she can meet the challenge of developing such a body and her own leadership ability.

Carman has written, “What the world expects of Christians is not another Middle Ages, nor from the time of the Crusades, but from this very century. A common prayer . . . every Christian should say aloud . . . loud and clear. . . . We need men who will say to the world ‘Christ is in me’—and not think they mean it. . . .”

To three children at Fatima the spirit of Lent was clearly expressed: “For a season—pray and do penance. This story was not taken from the Middle Ages, nor from the time of the Crusades, but from this very century. Prayer and penance. How simple is the answer for peace in the world! Do we not believe in the power of the Mother of God? Do we doubt the power of prayer? Then why is there no claiming to our bedside at night of our small invocation, ‘Queen of Peace, pray for us’? Why must always be so remote to those things which should be foremost in our daily lives? This indifferent attitude toward national and world affairs, the building up of our small words, the narrowing of our minds to me, me, me—why are these so important? Since when are we not responsible to others, our family, our classmates, our fellow Americans? Are we not brothers with Christ? Is he the only one who is truly Mystical Body? Then why don’t we stop just thinking about it and doing something for it? We had a retreat not too long ago. That was the last I heard about it. The love that was made known to us there is the spirit of Lent. It is a spirit to be collated, though, before it will become a part of us. That takes initiative, perseverance, and a will, the goal of which is heaven.

Prayer. What could be easier? It is simply “talking” to God. Talking to our friends seems easy enough, why should conversation with our dearest friend be difficult? Penance. This year why not give up ice-cream for a month to contribute something positive, giving something up for Lent is fine for our younger brothers and sisters, but we should now be able to do something positive for Christ.

Let us look at the same dance about two hours after it starts:

The next week-end she studied. WHY???

To find an answer to this provocative question, one must explore the School Dance, that most serious of all social events. It is a time to prepare for Calvary and the crucifixion of the Word made Flesh—our redemption is at hand.
"Royal Gambit" Is Playhouse
Letter Of Filing March 23-25

"Royal Gambit", one of the New York season's major dramatic offerings of the New York season's major dramatic offerings, is available for the Barry College Playhouse this year. Dates for the Barry production are March 23 and 25 at 8:15 p.m., with a matinee March 24 at 2:30 p.m.

The play, by the German author, the English-language premier in 1959 in an adaptation by George White at the Sullivan Street Playhouse, an off-Broadway arena theater.

An interesting aspect of the play is that it will be done in modern dress since in that year Henry VIII represents the modern man. Through the tragi-comedy, one will see three aspects of the modern age develops.

"Royal Gambit" has received wide critical acclaim. A review in the New York Times called it, "Original, stimulating, and curious," and recommended a play that asks some cogent questions, and provides disturbing answers." in the Herald Tribune, Walter Kerr said, "An exceptionally interesting experiment in fresh material and fresh method." The play was first produced in Germany in 1957. Since then it has been staged in every major theater in that country and in Austria.

The cast consists of one man and six women. Jeffery Gilden, a drama student at the University of Chicago, portrayed the title role. The six women, his wives, are played by: Lucille Moss, Kate Arias of Aragon; Maryاذن اقوال; Anna of Cleves; a drama student at the University of Chicago; Mary, the court hairdresser, an off-Broadway arena theater.

Tickets will be on sale for $1.

Communist Study Group Formed: To Meet Weekly

by Marie Yale

A Communist Study Group, under the leadership of Marie Yale and moderated by Fr. John Egan, O.P., has recently been formed on campus. The meeting, held every Mon. at 12:15 p.m. in room 216, are open to all interested students.

With help from members of other study groups in the Miami area, the group proposes to prepare students for the future with the inevitable struggle with communism that lies ahead. Many people are completely unaware of the threat that communism poses on the world today. It is hoped that the efforts of this group will help others to realize the gravity of the present danger and encourage them to learn as much about communism as possible.

N.S.A. President Installs Future Secretaries

by Barbara Stephens

On Thursday, Feb. 22, at 7:45 p.m., the Secretarial Science Club installed 16 future officers of the Future Secretaries Association and became officially associated with the National Secretaries Association.

The ceremony was set under the direction of Francette Calac, the Miami Chapter, congratulated the club on being an official member under the leadership of Marie Lisano, Johanna Duzy, Mrs. Bruce, president of the Miami Chapter of the N.S.A. Next came the installation of the new officers: the new vice-president; Karen Sweng, vice-president; Rose Spina, secretary-treasurer; and Liz Sampson, engineer.

As each of those girls pledged to uphold her office, another pinning ceremony followed as Francette Calac pinned each member. After the code of ethics was read by Francette Calac, the president; Karen Sweng, vice-president; Rose Spina, secretary-treasurer; and Liz Sampson, engineer.

"Each case establishes the absurdity of the other, so that either communism or democracy is reduced to absurdity, some absurdities may be more absurd than the other." Disarmament or Communism: Is a Rational Choice Possible?

Thousands of college students descended upon the White House and the Russian Embassy a few weeks ago to picket in protest of nuclear testing. Some few students had to be picked up by police cars at the Embassy. There are 353 fruitless sessions since last November, and finally packed up their bags and headed homeward. The green light was given to proceed on their way by a welcoming address by National Secretaries Association.

Perhaps, then, a victory for Communism is not viewed as quite so bad after all. For, "each case establishes the absurdity of the other, so that either communism or democracy is reduced to absurdity, some absurdities may be more absurd than the other." Disarmament or Communism: Is a Rational Choice Possible?

Barry College is an institution committed to higher education, Barry, the College Beautiful, is a source of imaginative growth. To be a Barry College student is also a complement of all higher, and somewhat central.

Let me begin my story in a typical classroom on a typical morning of a typical week. The instructor is returning test papers. Everyone is silent as she converses very, very deeply. Suddenly from an adjoining room comes the sound of a very, very rare voice. Up the scale. Down. Up. Down. "I must confess, I am getting a little nervous. Am I singing?" "Do, Re, Mi, Fa, So, La, Ti, Do.

B-A-N-G! There is something fumbling behind the knees of the chair. The greater part of the culprit with attempted murder.

In a dare (my instructors call it daydreaming), I head toward one place, almost synonymous with daydreaming, my car. My car has become a refuge. Up come the windows and on comes the music. Cool comfort.

The noise is outside and it has the ability to tear the ear apart and pull the hair of the engaged. Cool comfort.

The scenery outside is lovely. Inside there is precious peace and loneliness.

Noise, Noise Everywhere—Nor Any Place to Think

by Yvonne Zayek

"Pooh" Pulls Plaudites

by Marge Rabell

"Pooh," attached by Marge Rabell, has been a sometimes to mislead, untrue and abuse one's self and others. It is there is a point in the future that man is denied vital opportunities and basic rights because of his color, an injustice is done to that man. Yet that is precisely what happens to the Negro.

It is not discrimination if a man with ability earns more money than a man without it. It is discrimination if a man with ability is denied a chance because of his color.

It may not be discrimination if a Catholic institution opens its doors only to Catholics; it is discrimination if a Catholic institution is unwilling to accept Catholics simply because they are Negroes.

It is not discrimination if a neighborhood wishes to keep high standards; but it is discrimination if a white person who bad character is more welcome in the neighborhood than the poor Negro.

In such matters, it seems to me there really can be no argument. The race question is not merely a political or religious question. It involves questions of every order. It is essentially a moral problem, a question of sin and justice. Here the position Catholics must take seems quite clear. Catholics cannot accept the idea of a master race, either black or white. Catholics must expel the racist doctrine that men are born with the mark upon their foreheads. For Catholics, the Church proclaims the essential equality of all men.

Lyricism, Standing is sinful. Hatred is sinful. And denying any man his basic human rights because of his skin color is racial discrimination and sinful. I do not see how there can be any dispute on that.

Frosh Elect Officers
In State-type Election
by Carol Isbell
This year's freshman class elections have marked another first in the history of Barry. Now that the election process is initiated by the class of 1965. The freshmen were happy to use the new method and were all in agreement to the worth of the procedure.
Freshman class officers were elected Feb. 22 and 26, Joanne Rask, who served as president pro-temp during first semester, was elected first-year class president.
Pat Percival took the vice-president's chair and Karen Swink will act as secretary. Treasurer's position is held by Denise Vanderwerff, and the new social chairman is Camille Poreca.
Feeling the need for a more efficient way to elect freshman class officers, a group of sophomores investigating various procedures which would eliminate much of the confusion and inefficiency of previous elections, Pat Percival, Junior. Anne Manguo, Elaine Castro and Carol Isbell agreed upon a state-type election, which would make the freshmen more aware of the different qualifications of each of their classes before all classes, for the freshmen to attain this honor.
Freshman Receives $1200 Scholarship
by Kathy Zerberg
Diane Thompson, a freshman, has been awarded the $1,200 Future Homemakers of America College Scholarship in recognition of her F.H.A. record in high school.
When a senior in Clewiston High School, Diane received the State Future Homemakers Degree, being the only Clewiston student to attain this honor. Her F.H.A. advisors during high school were Miss Betty Swaf- ford and Mrs. Inez Manuel.
Diane said, "I am very happy to have received this honor, because it will enable me to continue my studies in home economics here at Barry."
In order to maintain her scholarship it is necessary for Diane to attend a Florida college and then teach in Florida Schools for four years, to repay her scholarship debt.
Miss Thompson is the current "Miss Sugar" of the 1961 ti-en-dary County Fair.
Class of '65 Plants Tree
In the presence of faculty and student body, the class of 1965 planted their class tree Feb. 20 and recited the Arbor Day pledge. Presentation of the tree was made by Joanne Rask, class president, with the assistance of the freshman Student Council representatives.
This Barry tradition dates back to Arbor Day, 1941, when the first classes at Barry presented their trees. Each year since, the freshmen class has planted a tree to symbolize the hope that they, too, may grow in strength and beauty.
G.R.E.'s Gauge Student Progress
by ELAINE CASTRO
Sophomores, seniors and first year graduate students will rise bright and early March 16 to par-ticipate in the annual Graduate Record Examination.
There is often much mystery and solemnity involved in the procedure. The sophomore orig-inators feel it was a method which helps insure a rational rather than an emotional ap-proach to choosing class leaders.
