THE ANGELICUS presents this special edition in memory of Monsignor William Barry, co-founder of Barry College and founder of St. Patrick's Church on Miami Beach. We offer our prayers and condolences to the entire family.

MONSIGNOR WILLIAM BARRY ... 1886-1967
Father Barry Is Pioneer in Florida

by Marjorie L. Filhavsky

Known simply as "Father Barry" to thousands of Greater Miami residents and tourists who know that Miami Beach, even Fort Lauderdale, is not far away, the Monsignor William Barry attended his last mass on Monday, November 21, 1967 at 10 a.m. from the St. Francis of Assisi Church, where Monsignor Barry returned to assume the operation of the Motherhouse as a semi-retiree. St. Francis of Assisi Church was dedicated in 1929 and renamed St. Francis Xavier Church in 1938. Monsignor Barry was awarded two honorary doctorates of Sacred Liturgy by Notre Dame University, South Bend, Ind., in recognition of his contributions to the Latin-American Seminaries which he organized and directed for the Diocese of St. Augustine and students between North American and South American nations.

The first publisher of Florida's Catholic newspaper, Monsignor Barry was also a noted editor of "The Florida Catholic" diocesan newspaper of the Diocese of St. Augustine, which published its first edition on Dec. 1, 1939 in Miami and ended its publication in 1953. In 1949 he was awarded an honorary degree of D.D. from the Barry College. May they rest in peace. Among the other celebrations was the completion of the usual annual Christmas pageant, some of which were Bishop Paul Tanner, Bishop Patrick Shanley, and two of Monsignor Barry's other nephews, Joseph Barry of Ireland and Father Laurence Barry of Illinois.

Reverend Mother Genevieve, Sisters, Students and Friends, I wish briefly to draw together what they did for theirs. What virtues we ask made twins of marriage and the education of the young working women. Known as Casa Franciscana and administered by the Adrian Dominican Sisters, it is located at 1120 Sixth St., Miami Beach, directly opposite St. Francis de Sales Hospital.

In 1958 when Bishop Barry and Monsignor Barry provided the first scholarship to the college in June 1940 and it has been his practice to confine himself to parochial work, love, and dedication to the Catholic Church in Florida with the parochial residence and religious education of the young working women. We Remember the Man . . .

During his eighty-one years, Monsignor William Barry touched the lives of numerous people in the Florida area. Barry students and faculty came in close contact with Monsignor and often saw him during his many visits to supervise the construction of the library. Monsignor Barry was a typical Irishman as can be seen from the following tales.

Sister Joanetta, head of the graduate department, previously taught at St. Patrick's School and often dealt with Monsignor. Sister remembers that no matter what a student's offense from blowing up labs to letting air out of tires, to theft, Monsignor would bring the student back to class and say “Sister, he's a fine boy. Give him a chance.”

Sister Alma Christa, professor in the music department and a Barry graduate, tells of an amusing experience at St. Patrick's Church where she was conducting the choral group for a graduation ceremony. “In the middle of the triumphant closing hymn,” Sister said, “I suddenly heard Monsignor's authoritative voice over the microphone: ‘Will the choir please stop singing?’ Monsignor had forgotten an announcement that he wished to make!”

Sister says that she remembered Monsignor as unpredictable, strong and humorous, but most of all as a personal friend his warm, sincere interest and support could always be counted upon.

Mrs. Adele O'Sullivan, a student at Barry and one of Monsignor's parishioners, remembers his sermon as fresh and provocative. “He never preached but held you in a spiritual conversation,” she said. “His message was for you.” Mrs. O'Sullivan says that he was close to his people. He loved poetry and could recite long passages. The Irish in him showed true when he told his favorite tale “The Elephant Story.”

A Tribute to the Man...

The following remarks were delivered by Rev. Cyril Burke, O.F.M., Chaplain of Barry College, at the funeral Mass for Monsignor Barry on Nov. 21.

Last Thursday night, strength- ened by the consoling assur- ance of eternal absolution administered by the indulged Friar, Franciscan hospital Chaplain, Father Capistran Petri, with the sounds of Our Lady’s Rosary ringing in his ears, Monsignor Barry fell off his sick-bed. He died shortly after midnight on Fri- day, November 17.

It was a fitting way for Monsignor Barry to die. From his earliest years Our Lady’s Rosary was part of his family life. Nightly, in that holy home de- voted to God and their thirteen surviving children, Our Lady’s praises were sung, through her intercession, they begged a merciful God for the spiritual and temporal needs of their family. Their prayers were not in vain.

Three priests at the altar of the Church of the Apostles in the See of St. Au- gustine, for Monsignor Barry, destined to the Mother General- ship of the Vatican Adrian Com- munity, are the fulfillment of the faith of so many priests, in three more pious vocations and two more Dominican Sisters add fur- ther to the family history.

Devozion to Our Blessed Lady did not cease with Monsignor Barry’s death but a parental fondness for the College in County Tipperary, Nor when he entered the seminary at Carlow, did it cease with St. Mary’s in Baltimore, to the Catholic University in Washing- ton, to north Florida, and finally to Miami Beach in 1926. It was a fitting way for Monsignor Barry to die.

The epitome of the devotion to Our Blessed Lady of course, is the Campanile dedi- cated to St. Mary’s in Baltimore, a seren- dity of the incomparable Carl Fisher and to house the bells that would recall the Angels of Our Lady amid the hustle and bustle, the gaiety and the sor- row, the sun and sand that is Miami Beach.

And it was a fitting way for Monsignor Barry to die. And it was a fitting day for him to die.

On the occasion of his Golden Jame; November 17, the day Monsignor Barry died. They are from Jean Wilkowski, Barry graduate, Lt. Gen. and Mrs. Lewis Walt, and Gen. Martin Green, commandant of the Marine Corps.
